

When a Child Dies: Peer Support Skills

September 16 2010

California Peer Support Association

Reviews of Participants:

- Anne – great information. Thank you so much. I was worried about how I would react or respond when I saw the topic for the whole day, but you made it interesting, fun and informative. Thank you!
- I liked how you presented dealing with a child death by keeping us on the outside while still learning key skills.
- Great class and great information. It was presented great and I learned a lot to take back to my Peer Support Team and officers at my Department.
- I thought this class was really good. Enjoyed it and learned from it. Difficult subject to teach and you did a good job.
- Better than expected. I like how forced to engage.
- Peer Support people need to care for themselves because they are worth it.
- You have a deep compassion for what you do! It's evident throughout your presentation. Thank you and be safe.
- I liked the break-out sessions and getting experience from others and how they handle it.
- Great Presenter! You seem very trustworthy!
- Down to earth and genuine information. Thank you!
- I enjoyed your class. At first I was dreading it thinking it would be heavy and depressing. It was light and informative.
- This info was great – right on target. Thanks for taking the bold move to put it together for us.
- The class had a great flow and a good mix of lecture and interactive activities. Good balance of self-care and caring for others emphasis. Great job! Thanks!
- Excellent adult learning concepts of methodologies. You didn't just let us sit there.

Reviews of Participants:

- Your presentation was clear, easy to follow and informative. Your points are a good reminder to take care of ourselves. What we see and hear at work has a profound effect on our lives whether or not we realize it! We need balance in our lives with lots of hobbies and laughter! Thank you.
- You have a GREAT way of telling “stories.” I really wish this was a longer class.
- You presented it in a very nice easy to understand manner. Thank you so much.
